DESCRIPTION

Bobongko is a small language spoken in the Togian Archipelago of Central Sulawesi, Indonesia. Data for this draft triglot dictionary were collected over ten days spent in the Bobongko homeland in January 2001 and September 2017. It comprises just over 1100 main entries, along with English and Indonesian reverse indices.

A brief dictionary of Bobongko (Central Sulawesi)<sup>1</sup>

compiled by David Mead

Introduction

Bobongko is a minor language of Central Sulawesi, Indonesia. It is spoken in the Togian Islands, principally on the shores of Kilat Bay (Lembanato, Matobiai and Tirpo villages) on the north side of Togian Island; it is also spoken in Patoyan village on Batu Daka Island. Presently there are around two thousand Bobongko speakers. Bobongko continues to be used by all generations in Lembanato village (albeit with lexical slippage toward Indonesian, particularly in the youngest generation). In Patoyan children are ashamed (malu) to speak Bobongko and have only a passive knowledge of it.

This dictionary is based on data collected during a one-week visit to Lembanato village in January 2001 and a three-day return visit to the Togian Islands in September 2017. I would like to thank my primary Bobongko respondents: Nurlan Andi Massa, Ardin S. Bake, Najamudin (alias Hajir Pajulangi), Bunyamin Majahuna (alias Buni), and Diman.

This dictionary is brief, and despite my best efforts in the time available it doubtless contains a number of errors in how words are spelled and defined. I hope that, rather than casting a critical eye on my work, the Bobongko people will receive it as a challenge to improve on this small beginning. I hereby release this dictionary for anyone to amend and expand it.

Vowels and Consonants

The Bobongko language has five vowels and nineteen consonants.

vowels:            i   e   a   o   u

The vowel e is a front vowel; is not articulated as schwa.

consonants:	voiceless stops	p	t	k	' (glottal stop)
	voiced stops	b	d	j	g
	nasals	m	n	ny	ng
	fricatives	f	s		h
	lateral		l
	trill		r
	approximants	w		y

The consonants h and w occur in recent loan words, e.g. harasia ‘secret’ (Malay rahasia), mompahang ‘understand’ (Malay paham), waktu ‘time’ (Malay identical), sawa ‘wet rice field’ (Malay sawah). The consonant f symbolizes a voiceless bilabial fricative, while j symbolizes a voiced postalveolar affricate. For further discussion see Mead (2001).
